Maryland's talent pool is tremendous, and the cost of living here is affordable. So when you marry those two things, really we kind of feel like we hit the jackpot because the engineers that I have would cost triple that on the West Coast. I could not imagine having my business headquartered anywhere else.

DIVERSITY IN TECH MATTERS.
IT'S YOUR ROADMAP TO SUCCESS.

To succeed in business, having a diverse staff is not just the right thing to do, it's critical for keeping your company competitive and thriving. When thinking about diversity, maybe you've been asking: "What can my business do?" and coming up short. So maybe it's time to ask: "Where can my business move?"

Robert Lee
CEO & Co-founder, Dragos

Dragos is on a critical mission: Protect the nation's industrial infrastructure from cyber attacks. The company is fueled by well-trained, passionate people drawn to Maryland's enviable work-life balance and investment in nurturing a leading edge tech workforce.

The team's combined national security experience is absolutely part of what drives Dragos, according to CEO Robert Lee.

How is Dragos pulling such a rich assembly of specialized talent? By having its headquarters in the same neighborhood as the NSA and U.S. Cyber Command.
